Good Day Members!

As our financial year winds down, we have made several significant strides at our club. Membership enrollment is at its highest level since 2010, and we hope to have more than 1,000 members by the close of the first quarter of our financial calendar.

We continue to see strong growth in our catering and wedding business with a booking pace equal to our record-setting 2015-16 year. The Union Club is the talk of the town in regard to hosting and executing top-level social events.

With the exciting Republican National Convention set for July, we have partnered with several leading companies, allowing us to be on stage as the nation comes to Cleveland.

Another highlight has been our Employee of the Year recognition. This year we proudly congratulate Mr. Timothy Paine, who celebrates more than three years of service with our great club. We continue to enhance our activities calendar thanks to active committee involvement, and attendance at this year’s events has been tremendous.

Thank you for your continued support of your club. We look forward to greeting you at your next visit.

Cordially,
Lawrence McFadden

“STAFF MAKES CLUB 5-STAR

“The most important strength of the Union Club is its employees. Nancy Zaroggian, catering sales manager, guided us in our decisions and addressed any concerns with warmth and professionalism. … Beverage Manager Linda Wenninger made excellent suggestions on wines during our food and wine tasting. (From) the gentlemen who worked in the garage to valet our guests’ cars, to the dining room wait staff and bar staff, all were true professionals and provided superior service.”

BOARD PRESIDENT REVIEWS PAST YEAR, DESCRIBES PATH FORWARD

What five words sum up fiscal 2016 at the Union Club? “Progress, accountability, strategy, teamwork, and results,” said Board President Randell McShepard. Here, he talks about the year’s accomplishments and the state of the club moving forward.

Q: What, in your opinion, have been the year’s most impactful initiatives on the part of the board or general manager?
A: We have made a serious commitment to enhancing the front and back of the house and improving the overall member experience. This has included sprucing up and reorganizing employee workspaces and the Fitness Center, polishing floors, adding signage and display boards throughout the building, and transitioning to LED lighting. The “215 in 2015” membership campaign was a massive success, resulting in more than 80 new members. In a related move, we established a committee to improve membership retention. Another successful round of zero-coupon notes was completed (through member support) which helped the club manage debt. Finally, our new general manager has established a culture of excellence that has led to improved financial discipline, enhanced operations, and a healthy buzz about the momentum of the club.

Q: What are we doing well?
A: In addition to the aforementioned, we are taking risks, exploring new approaches, and initiating research to gauge club industry best practices and standards. Committees are revisiting their key objectives and expanding their roles, and the board of trustees is extremely active and committed to the club. We are listening to ideas and perspectives from various segments of membership and responding whenever and wherever possible. Finally, our staff continues to deliver first-rate service to members and guests.

Q: What do we need to do better?
A: Retain members, market the club in new and innovative ways, expand partnerships with community organizations and institutions, and continue to train and develop our staff and senior leadership team. We also need to drive increased revenue in a fashion that generates additional financial resources that could be reinvested into the capital needs of the club. As a membership, we all could and should place the club “top of mind” for events, company parties, family gatherings, professional meetings, and casual dining.

Q: What surprised you about your first year as club president?
A: The required time commitment and the number of moving parts at the club (running operations, monitoring financial reports, understanding membership needs and expectations, developing business opportunities, managing staff, etc.) that have to be carefully addressed on a daily basis.

Q: Financially, how are we doing?
A: We are completing a very successful year that will result in a modest profit (in terms of income over expenses). But more importantly, we are building a financial management infrastructure that will position the club to have many profitable years far into the future. All aspects of the financial wellbeing of the club are being carefully analyzed, and much credit is owed to Mr. McFadden and his staff along with the tireless work of the Finance Committee.

Q: What are some of your and the board’s key objectives for the coming year?
A: Continue to grow membership and increase financial returns; train and develop staff; educate membership about the financial position of the club and the role they can play to positively impact growth; leverage the club as a suitable venue for RNC events and programs; continue to strengthen and support committees; and support the work and vision of our general manager.

EMPLOYEE SPOTLIGHT

THANK A MAN WHOSE EFFORTS GLEAM

Take a moment to notice the gleaming brass handrails, door pulls, and other touches inside and outside the clubhouse. Then thank Lamont Byrd for keeping them meticulously polished, a task he performs every night as the third shift housekeeping staff member responsible for cleaning the first floor.

"I try to do my best. That’s the best I can do," said Lamont, who this year marks his 25th anniversary with the club. Thanking him in person might be difficult, as Lamont works 11 p.m. to 6 a.m.

"We’re the unsung heroes of the club," he said, referring to himself and fellow third-shift housekeeping staff members Mike Lewis and Edward Montgomery, who clean the lower level and third floor. The three also help with banquet setup and other projects. "When there’s heavy lifting to do, they call us."

Lamont began at the club in 1991 as night watchman, and his workstation was a booth located just inside the parking garage entrance. Over the years, he’s seen many changes to the clubhouse, including relocations of the Dining Room, Reading Room, and bar.

He remembers the first time he entered the clubhouse. "I was amazed that so much space is inside what looks like a small building, and I was impressed by all the details. I’ve always like the eagle above Main Dining Room," he said.

In fact, Lamont collects eagle sculptures and other eagle-themed items, a hobby he began years ago when coworkers asked him what kind of “Byrd” he was: “I said, ‘I’m a bald eagle, and it took off from there.’” Music and movies are among his other interests.

Lamont lives in the Mount Pleasant neighborhood with Patrice, his wife of 32 years. They have an adult son, Antonio, and a granddaughter, Janiya.

TASTINGS

Winemaker Meet and Greet
Welcomes Rising Star

Curt Schalchlin will talk about his winery and passion for Rhone varietals at the Winemaker’s Meet and Greet, MONDAY, MAY 16, from 6 to 8 p.m. Beverage Manager Linda Wenninger calls Schalchlin, owner of California’s Sans Liege Winery and Groundworks Wines, a young, fascinating, exciting new winemaker. Enjoy four wines paired with hors d’oeuvres. $25++ includes parking. Call Front Desk for reservations.

Brew Tasting Takes to the Patio

It’s only fitting that the Rod and Gun Syndicate, a club within the club, heads outside to host an exploration of craft brews from Dogfish Head. Join them on THURSDAY, JUNE 9, at 6 p.m., as a brewery representative shares offerings such as Festina Pêche, Flesh and Blood, and Nameste, all paired with culinary creations from Chef Matt. The patio is the place, weather permitting. $45++; call the Front Desk for reservations.

New Wines from Member-Favorite Vintner

“Fans of Orin Swift wines will be excited to know we have two new releases,” said Beverage Manager Linda Wenninger. 2014 Machete is a red blend called big, dark, and brooding. “The striking labels will make you want to watch Tarintino flicks,” noted Linda. 2014 Palermo, a cabernet sauvignon, is soft but lively. Carryout only. Contact Linda for details.

JOIN RARE CONVERSATION
AT BREAKFAST WITH LEADERS

May’s Breakfast With Leaders promises to be emblematic of the high-quality exchanges these early-morning gatherings inspire, according to Matt Previts, co-chair with Amy Pausche of the Cleveland Business Leaders Committee, which sponsors the series. Set for 7:30 a.m. THURSDAY, MAY 19, it will feature club members Chris Connor and John Morikis. In January, Morikis was named CEO of Sherwin-Williams Co., assuming the role held by Connor, who is now executive chairman of the board. “This will be a conversation in real time,” noted Matt. “How often do you get to hear directly from two highly successful leaders during a very rare time of transition?”

Breakfast With Leaders is held in the Boardroom or Wedgwood Room, and it’s the intimacy of the setting that makes the magic, in Matt’s opinion. “We keep the event small so that we can have meaningful, personal interactions. We give our guests a wide berth and let them take the conversation where they want it to go.”

Each club member is welcome to bring one guest. Call the Front Desk for reservations.

After May 19’s gathering, Breakfast With Leaders will return in SEPTEMBER. An exciting lineup of speakers is already in place. Plan to attend monthly.

“The striking labels will make you want to watch Tarintino flicks.”

— Linda Wenninger, beverage manager

COMMITTEE NEWS

COMMITTEE WORKS TO KEEP MEMBERS ENGAGED

“Engaged members are lasting members,” said Richard Pollock, chair of the recently formed Member Retention Committee, which works to establish and retain connection between members and the club. Initiatives range from simple, such as encouraging members and staff to introduce themselves to one another, to scientific, including conducting member surveys and analyzing club-usage data.

“Helping members feel engaged begins with a successful on-boarding process,” said Richard, applauding the New-Member Orientation Roundtable Luncheons held the first Friday of every month. “Even longtime members should attend to be sure they are fully aware of all the club offers.

“We strongly encourage members to share ideas for events they would like to see,” said Richard. He cites, for example, recent requests for programs that appeal to military veterans.

“We want to ensure that club events and programs best serve members’ interests.”

FITNESS FOR THE SEASON

GOLFERS IMPROVE WITH STRENGTH TRAINING

Fitness Center Director Christina Smelko

If you want to improve your golf game, have more fun on the course, and feel better the next day, think strength training!

Golf-specific strength training can:

- Boost your overall stamina
- Counteract the imbalances inherent in swinging a golf club
- Add power and speed to your swing

Ideally, you should make golf-specific weight and resistance training part of a regular, year-round fitness program. But if that hasn’t been the case, take heart: The golf season is young, and it’s never too late to begin.

Call or stop by the Fitness Center. We’ll help you define your goals and a program to help you achieve them. Whether you’re a novice or seasoned expert, we’ll “add weight” to your game.

TIME TO GET MOVING

Take a Complimentary Golf Assessment

Frustrated by your golf swing? Take a complimentary golf assessment May 2 though 13. We can help pinpoint areas of weakness that may be hindering your game. Call or stop by the Fitness Center for more details and to sign up.

Step Out With the Walking Club

Stroll the city with the Walking Club every Tuesday from 12:30 to 1 p.m., June 7 through Aug. 30. No need to change clothes. Just step into your walking shoes, and come to the Fitness Center. A staff member will lead the group. Invite a guest!

Start the Day Running

Beginning June 9, Fitness Center Manager Christina Smelko will lead a group run at 6:30 a.m. every Thursday. Runners at all levels are encouraged to join. No need to sign up in advance; simply report to the Fitness Center, where you can shower and dress afterward.
